1,500 SOLICITORS TO HEAR ADDRESS BY EUGENE BLACK

Federal Reserve Governor Will Lend Encouragement to Fund Seekers, Opening $500,000 Drive Monday Morning.

WORKERS EAGER AS APPEAL NEARS

Leaders in Relief Army Hold Luncheon, Receive Instructions From Division Commanders.

Spurred by civic duty, Atlanta's army of relief workers will gather at the city auditorium at 7:45 o'clock tonight to receive final instructions and encouragement from the presence of thousands of well-wishers before they "hop off" Monday morning in a battle to raise $500,000 in order that the unemployed and needy of the city may have sufficient food and clothing to withstand the winter.

Intent on their task, serious in purpose, the 1,500 field workers will receive encouragement from a crowd expected to number several thousand persons. Eugene R. Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, will be the principal speaker and a program of stunts will be presented for the entertainment of those who gather to wish the workers good fortune.

Colonels, captains and lieutenants in the relief army gathered at Rich's tea room Friday for the final pre-campaign luncheon, and heard Arthur S. Bird, chairman of the campaign, and other leaders explain the method of work. More than 100 of the leaders heard Mr. Bird, Mrs. Preston Arkwright, chairman of the woman's division; Frank Miller, chest secretary; Dr. H. L. Turner and others give instructions.

Women Optimistic. Enthusiastic spirit was evidenced by the workers and all were optimistic that, despite economic conditions, people of Atlanta will realize the necessity of subscribing and give. Mr. Bird said that 45,000 people in Atlanta are in need of assistance and that the number would be increased as the winter approaches.

All workers were especially urged to attend the mass meeting tonight and were told that the auditorium has been cleaned, decorated and made ready for the assembly. Mr. Bird outlined the program for next week and called attention to luncheon meetings, the first of which will be held at 12:15 o'clock Tuesday at Telfair Hall.

Each day after Monday workers will gather at luncheon meetings, the first of which will be held at 12:15 o'clock Tuesday at Telfair Hall. Because Monday is Roosevelt Day in Atlanta, no meeting will be held.

Rector of Stiffkey Is Ousted by Church

NORWICH, England, Oct. 21.—(AP) The Rev. H. F. Davidson, rector of Stiffkey, was removed from the church of England priesthood today because of his conviction last July on charges of immoral conduct with several young women.

After sentence had been pronounced by the bishop of Norwich, who had brought the charges, the rector started a speech in defense of his actions. The ecclesiastical procession walked out as he was speaking.

The sentence was pronounced before the high altar. The rector informed the court that if there was any mode of appeal he intended to adopt it. The verdict deprived the Rev. Davidson of his church living, and he indicated his intention of carrying his case to the archbishop of Canterbury. "No other clergyman," the rector asserted, "has striven to do the work which in my opinion every clergyman in the church ought to be doing—that of going out to the lower depths of society, leaving 90 persons to reach the one that is lost and left behind. I shall devote myself to that work as I have done since I was 18."

New Rules for Contract Bridge Will Be Revealed November First

BY TOM O'NEIL. NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—New rules for contract bridge will go into effect November 1 and it is the hope of the sponsors the nature of the changes will be kept secret till then. Announcement was made today by Walter Bienenbeck, vice president of the Whist Club of New York, acting in the absence of Charles M. Schwab, the president, that an agreement had been reached with the Portland Club of London and the commission Française du Bridge to publish the new code November 1. It will be effective immediately.

Discussions of changes began last spring when a committee from the Portland Club visited New York and conferred with a committee from the Whist Club, the rules of which in whist, bridge, auction and contract, made for its own exclusive members. Presumably penalties for non-vulnerable sets will be increased to deter psychic bidding. Long agitation for such changes preceded meetings of the committees.

U.S. WOULD EXTEND HOLIDAY ON ARMS FOR FOUR MONTHS

Government Offers To Prolong Truce in Hopes of Increasing Chances for Disarmament.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—America today agreed to extend for four more months the holiday from arms construction, but insisted upon the same two "ifs" (that were attached to acceptance of the original truce a year ago).

In his instructions to Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, Secretary Stimson directed that the League of Nations be informed that the United States is willing for the truce to run to March 1, 1933, instead of November 1, 1932, provided:

"That like action is taken by the other principal military and naval powers and subject to the understanding contained in the department's note of October 20, 1931, to the secretary general of the League, namely, that the proposed truce shall not apply to construction which had begun or for which contracts had been let prior to its entry into force."

Both these "ifs" were attached to American participation in the original holiday, which began November 1, 1931, and was to last a year. Stimson's message was the answer to an invitation from the League in August, when it was explained the extension was desired to prevent any step which "might prejudice the preparation of the general disarmament convention." This conference, now in adjournment, reconvenes in February, a month before the extended holiday ends.

The construction truce applies to all classes of arms.

SOLICITOR BOYKIN IS SUED BY M'RAE

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, victor in the recent democratic primary, Friday was charged with defamation of his opponent, William G. McRae, in a damage suit filed in city court of Atlanta by McRae, who seeks $100,000 for Boykin's alleged references to his record.

Solicitor-General Boykin Friday afternoon said that he felt complimented by the size of the judgment asked, but that "McRae has filed $100,000 suits before." Boykin said he had "no fear of any suit McRae might bring against me."

McRae alleges that Boykin, during the campaign, sent a letter to O. L. White, of 1904 Howell Mill road, referring to McRae as a "brute-taker and blackmailer," and inviting White to come to his office and see "the record of McRae." Also, McRae alleges, Boykin said in a motion picture advertisement that "McRae's criminal record is sufficient reason why honest men will not meet him on the same platform." McRae, in his petition, set out that the statements complained of imputed crimes to him and that he was not guilty of any crime.

The petition is divided into two counts, in each of which McRae asks for $50,000. McRae filed the petition as his own attorney.

Boy Rides 200 Miles To See Roosevelt

CORDELE, Ga., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A six-year-old boy, riding on a pony passed through here today en route to Atlanta on a 200-mile trip to see Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic presidential nominee.

The boy, Wentford Cook, son of J. D. Cook, of Chula, is accompanied by a man, who is riding a horse. Left Chula early this morning.

A sign on the pony's back says: "From Chula to Atlanta, 210 miles to see Roosevelt."

SURVEY ON POWER ARKRIGHT DENIES COST IS LAUNCHED FARE COMPROMISE

Macon Seeks Data To Decide Advisability of Municipal Distribution.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A survey to determine the advisability of the city of Macon distributing electric power to its citizens was under way here today and a decision was promised within four months.

The survey, being made by the Burns & McDonnell Company, of Kansas City, was expected to show the city whether its citizens could obtain better and less expensive service by the size of the distribution system. The report will include an inventory of the Georgia Power Company's distribution system, the approximate cost of duplicating it and the amount of current used and prices paid by Macon consumers.

City officials said if the report was favorable the next move would be to undertake to buy the distribution system of the Georgia Power Company or build one, the city buying its current from the power company.

R. H. Harte, associate engineer of Burns & McDonnell, said that usually in projects of this nature the power companies refused to sell their property and it was necessary to finance the project. If such an issue was successful a majority of power users in the city was assured for the municipal project.

The contract for the survey was signed by Mr. Hatfield and Mayor G. Glen Toole. It will cost Macon $7,000 and prompt beginning of the work was assured through the company's willingness to accept city warrants for its report.

Employers of labor are telling their employees that it is to the interest of all of them to re-elect President Hoover; that there is grave danger of worse conditions than exist today if Governor Roosevelt and the democrats come into power.

Missouri still looks democratic today. However, the republicans have come to life and are counting on a swing to their candidates. A visit from the president to this state, they hold, would be of great benefit to them.

2D RIOT QUELLED IN ONTARIO PRISON

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The 900 inmates of Portsmouth penitentiary had been sorted out and assigned to new cells tonight after the rioting of a scene at Lone Pine, Cal., stamping out the second riot of the week.

To demonstrate order had been restored, the institution. Brigadier General D. M. Ormond, dominion superintendent of penitentiaries, escorted a group of newspapermen on a tour of inspection.

After these visitors—the first admitted since the riot last Monday—had examined every part of the penitentiary with the exception of the cell blocks, General Ormond took them to the warden's office, where he recounted the events of the week. As he spoke, officers and men in uniform stood at attention.

Yesterday's riot, the penitentiary superintendent said, started while he was interviewing inmates in his investigation into the Monday disorders. Prisoners in the cell blocks started breaking up their furniture and over the rioting, and men in uniform started firing their rifles.

FRANKING 'FRAUD' IS LAD TO MILLS

Democratic Letter of Accusation, Sent to Brown, Made Public.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—John F. Costello, democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, tonight made public a letter to Postmaster-General Brown saying it was "inconceivable" that "the abuse of the franking privilege" by Secretary Mills had not come "to the attention of the postal authorities."

If the officials were "a lesser personage" than Mr. Mills, Costello wrote, "your vigilant inspection service would have been upon his neck long ago."

Costello said that last night "there went into the mails in large numbers a purely political statement by Mr. Mills."

"In the same envelope was a letter addressed to Mr. Mills by George R. Pearson, president of the New York state senate, which also was a purely political statement," Costello's letter continued.

"Mr. Mills' statement purported to deal with matters of federal finance, but its obvious purpose was that of airing differences of opinion between Mr. Mills and Governor Roosevelt on matters that are in controversy in the campaign."

These political documents were mailed in treasury department official envelopes, Costello's letter said.

Mix Seriously Hurt In Filming Picture

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Tom Mix, veteran star of western films, was injured possibly seriously today when his noted horse, Tony, tripped and fell upon him in the filming of a scene at Lone Pine, Cal. Several hours after the accident Mix was still unconscious.

Word of the accident was telephoned to Universal studios here from the location camp of the film cast. Ar Rosson, director of the picture, said it appeared Mix had been hurt badly, although he did not believe the actor was in extreme danger.

Rosson said a physician summoned from Lone Pine had not been able to ascertain the extent of the injuries, but believed Mix possibly had suffered fractures of several ribs and concussion of the brain.

The accident occurred in the report said, when Mix was riding Tony at a fast gallop, engaging in a fight with another actor, Duke Lee, who also was injured.

Members of the cast rushed Mix to a nearby farmhouse.

TELLS ST. LOUIS TO SMILE AGAIN

Pledges Security of Foundation of Credit, National and Private, as Thousands Cheer.

Text of Roosevelt's Addresses in Pages 2 and 3.

BY W. B. RAGSDALE. COLISEUM, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Before 10,000 cheering Missourians, Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight reviewed the policies he has laid down for dealing with the various types of investments and charged that "the indifference of the present administration has permitted the savings thousands of our citizens to be swallowed up."

He renewed his assertions that the "administration whip-crackers" had started a "campaign of fear."

"What type of leadership has the president exerted toward the elimination of the type of abuses which resulted in the insull failure?" he asked as he repeated his call for federal regulation of utilities. He referred again to the program he has outlined in past speeches for dealing with federal finances, state obligations, municipal bond issues, foreign obligations, domestic industrial bonds, public utility obligations, railroads and real estate obligations, and farm mortgages.

He called for repeal of the "flood gates" which have opened, but he said, "the question is whether the situation could be worse; the question is, how can we make it better?"

While the crowd sent applause ringing up to the roof that rose high above the two-tiered galleries, the democratic candidate renewed his declaration for repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

He came to the Coliseum, where Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency in 1912 and where Herbert Hoover outlined his plan for farm relief in 1928, from a tumultuous demonstration in East St. Louis.

In addition to the 10,000 or more who crowded the Coliseum to its capacity, other thousands crowded about the entrances outside and formed a long line to enter the building.

Roosevelt went from the hall to his train. He will depart early tomorrow morning for Louisville to carry his campaign into the third border state that he has visited on this tour.

Text of Roosevelt's Address On Farm Issue at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 21.—(AP)—This is the text of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's address in the arsenal today:

It is good to be here with you in Springfield, Ill., in the political and geographic center of this great state. Three weeks ago I visited Chicago representative of the industrial area of Illinois. Down here the problem of agriculture looms, but as I have often said, these two great interests are by no means strangers, nor are they really separated in interest at all. Each is dependent on the other to a degree often overlooked in American politics.

I want to call to your attention one of the aspects of the great American agricultural problem. More than a month ago at Topeka, Kan., I set forth a comprehensive national program for agriculture. I have not today it is my purpose again to take up this subject and to enlarge upon it. This program is conceived to meet a condition which cannot longer be endured in a nation endowed with so much natural wealth. I indulge in no magic formula. I do not attempt the task of misleading you into hoping I have arrived at a single panacea for the manifold problems of agriculture. I propose, therefore, fundamental cures, and I so in the spirit of honest business, with the belief that such a method is the sure way to win your co-operation in this great task that will face the new administration.

PROGRAM WORKED OUT BY AGRICULTURAL LEADERS.

May I also add that I would be the last person to claim sole credit for the program which I have outlined at Topeka or indeed for the enlargement of it which I propose to give you here today. It is a program worked out in co-operation with the wisest leaders of agriculture itself, and I pledge to you a continuance of that policy of co-operation in order that the program may be enacted into workable law, a law set into operation at the earliest possible moment. No attempt by the present administration to belittle this first honest effort to meet the problem of the American farmer can hide the essential fact that my three-point program goes to the root of the problem.

The three great steps which we must take are: First, the federal government owes it to agriculture to see that it gets a fair price for its products. That means that the price of farm products must be raised above the present ruinously low levels to which they have fallen. A properly adjusted tariff can do much in this direction, but the present tariff policies of the republican administration have done precisely the opposite. Pending the relief that will be afforded by properly adjusted tariff policy, measures must be taken to give the farmer immediate tariff benefit. This means in substance a practicable plan agreed to by agricultural leaders which will provide for the farmer a higher return for certain of his crops. I set forth these principles which such a plan must embody, in my Topeka speech, and these principles have been widely accepted as a basic plan of action in formulating the necessary legislative relief.

HEAVY TAXATION LOAD MUST BE LIFTED FROM FARMERS.

Second, there must be lifted from the backs of every farmer the heavy load of taxation which weighs upon him. This load is made up of three parts, the local, state and national units. At Pittsburgh I outlined the position of the federal tax, and the position of the state and local taxes. I also reiterated now my promise to exert all available influence in the position as president of the United States toward the reduction of all state and local taxes.

Third, we come to the vastly important principle of conservation, but den which farm mortgages now bear on every agricultural community. I want to take this occasion at this time to amplify that part of my program. Let me first repeat what I said about farm mortgages at Topeka:

"It is my purpose when elected to direct all the energies of which I am capable to definite projects to relieve that distress, and specifically I am prepared to resist that federal credit be extended to banks, insurance companies, loan companies and the other companies or corporations that finance farm mortgages among their assets; but that these credits must be made on the condition that every reasonable assistance be given to the mortgagee who is the farmer, and for the purpose of preventing foreclosure. And those conditions must be enforced."

LOWER INTEREST RATES SEEN AS VITAL NEED.

I further said that "lower interest rates and an extension of principal payments will save thousands of farms throughout this nation for their owners. And hand-in-hand with that, my friends, must stand the definite policy of giving those who have lost the title to their farms—titles now held by institutions seeking credit—the preferred opportunity of getting their property back."

To that may I add that the government should make a definite condition, that wherever possible interest rates must be lowered for renewed or extended mortgages. Whenever the government of the United States exercises any control over the situation it is the duty of that government to demand every practicable and possible assistance to the farmer seeking credit to finance his crops, and his farm, to obtain for him the very lowest reasonable rate of interest. The

New Weatherman Takes Charge

George W. Mindling, new United States weather forecaster, who Friday assumed duties of the Atlanta bureau, is shown as he made his first official forecast of the weather, which was for fair weather with probability of frost. Mr. Mindling comes to Atlanta from Boston.

As for those farm mortgage institutions not under the control of the federal government, I renew the statement made in my address at Topeka declaring for loans by federal financial agencies to such concerns to enable them to carry defaulted mortgages of deserving borrowers. It must never be forgotten that the farmer so loaned, the banks are primarily for the benefit of the farmer and must be so employed. Finally I propose consideration by congress of the necessity for a complete reorganization of the means provided to operate in the field of agricultural finance.

At the present time we have at least seven agencies concerned with farm mortgages. Some of these are direct agencies of the federal government. Some of them are corporations operating with funds provided by the federal government. Others are still more removed from the government but are under partial government authority. With my broad agricultural program I advocate the coordination of such agencies to the end that the federal agricultural policy in regard to farm mortgages may be guided by a single purpose and be so concentrated in its operation that it may really become an effective aid to the farmer.

I ask your study of this general agricultural policy for the agricultural people of this country in the same practical and sympathetic spirit in which it is made, and I invite your comparison of this program with the piecemeal and grudging concessions made by the present administration. As a definite example may I call to your attention the cautious commitment made by the president in his Des Moines speech when he stated as follows:

"But further and more definitely than this I shall propose to the congress at the next session that we further reorganize the federal land banks and give to them the resources and liberty of action necessary to enable them definitely and positively to expand in the refinancing of the farm mortgage situation where it is necessary to give men who want to fight for it a chance to hold their homes."

FARM MORTGAGE PROBLEM
ONE OF CONSIDERABLE AGE.
After a long period of complete silence and negative action this is his answer to the strong challenge of the democratic party this year. I would point out to you that the farm mortgage situation has existed for many years, that it has been critically bad during the past three years, and yet this is the only approach to positive action which the president is willing to make when impelled to promise to do so in the midst of a political campaign. It is but a grudging and hastily improved attempt to hang on to the coat-tails of the policy enunciated by the democratic party this year. The ultimate effectiveness of such vague promises I leave to you to judge in the light of the past acts of this administration.

The rising tide of agricultural protest is being shown by independent thinking and a resolute determination to bring about a new deal. I have offered a policy and a program, national in scope, providing for a community of effort on the part of the citizens of this country who seek earnestly for nothing more nor less than a fair chance to live as American citizens. The assurance of support and approval of this definite and concrete program which has come to me since that day when I first enunciated it at Topeka, marks, I feel sure, the first signs of dawn after the long night for agriculture.

I extend my grateful appreciation to those who have indicated not only their sympathy but their co-operation in my efforts. November 8 is near at hand—beyond that March 4—beyond that to agriculture, again I say, a new deal.

Parents had been injured when an automobile, said to have been driven by a drunken motorist, collided with the McNaair car, overturning it on the highway. Subsequently Mrs. Terrell was notified of her father's death.

In addition to Mrs. Terrell and Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. McNaair has five sisters who live in Atlanta and its vicinity. They are Mrs. J. T. Bell, of this city; Mrs. John Jones, Mrs. Reelab Huie, Mrs. J. T. Lassiter and Mrs. Mayland Daniel, all of Hapeville.

No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral of Mr. McNaair. A shillous lies out Dr. R. E. Dyer in bed with typhus fever, but failed to stop his experiments for controlling the disease.

Haggard and weak but convalescing, Dr. Dyer now gives instructions for continuing typhus tests to assistants who came to his bedside in the Navy hospital from laboratories of the National Institute of Health just next door.

That is where Dr. Dyer has been doing his typhus research for the past several years, and where he contracted the disease while grinding infected fleas into serum.

ROOSEVELT DRIVE GAINING IMPETUS

Many New Members Reported at Meeting of Committee Workers.

Democratic leaders in other counties are watching the special drive for memberships now being made by the Roosevelt Business and Professional League in Fulton county and the good results already accomplished have stimulated the activities in the other counties according to Charles B. Shelton, Georgia state chairman of the league, in a talk to committee workers held Friday afternoon.

Mr. Shelton announced that E. Burn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National bank, director of finance for Georgia, had informed him that he would hold his office open through today for mail subscriptions to the national campaign fund. Mr. Clay will meet Governor Roosevelt personally Sunday and desires to have as good report as possible ready for the nominee when he arrives. He has informed his associate directors of finance that up to Saturday night they may mail subscriptions by special delivery to him in Atlanta, care

ROOSEVELT WINS PRAISE OF CUTTING

SANTEE, N. M., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, in a statement issued through the National Progressive League, characterized Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt as "an idealist who has enough of the people's sense to put his ideals into practice."

Senator Cutting, who resigned recently as republican national committeeman for his state, said "while I am not a democrat, I sincerely hope that Governor Roosevelt, if elected, will give the country a progressive administration. From my own knowledge of him, I rely upon his devotion to the task of putting his pledges into effect."

Cutting said Roosevelt's idealism often had brought him "into conflict with those who draw class distinctions, based on wealth and social position. This accounts for the opposition Governor Roosevelt is encountering in Wall Street and in fashionable social circles in the east."

"Without regard to partisan or political consideration," Cutting continued, "everyone who really knows the man will reject and resent the caricature which his enemies have presented to the country."

"His whole public career, from my observation, has been sincerely devoted to an effort to improve conditions for the average American citizen."

"The attack upon Governor Roosevelt for his championship of the 'forgotten man' was to my mind ridiculous. We have reached a sorry stage in the history of American democracy if a political leader who speaks out boldly for the rights and interests of the rank and file of our people, when they are assailed, is to be branded a demagogue."

"I, for one, cannot withhold my admiration for his superb courage both as a private citizen and as a public man. In times like the present, the country will benefit from the application of such qualities as his to our national affairs."

Senator Cutting announced he will speak over the radio October 28, discussing campaign issues in relation to Governor Roosevelt and President Hoover.

$130,444,467 INCOME REPORTED FOR UTILITY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The gross income of the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation from November 1, 1926, when it absorbed the Ohio Fuel Corporation to December 31, 1930, was placed at $130,444,467 today by Examiner Robert J. Ryder, of the federal trade commission.

Testifying in the commission's investigation of public utilities, Examiner Ryder said in a formal report presented at today's hearings, that $105,172,321 in times like the present, the country will benefit from the application of such qualities as his to our national affairs."

Senator Cutting announced he will speak over the radio October 28, discussing campaign issues in relation to Governor Roosevelt and President Hoover.

"The gross income of the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation from the date of its merger with Ohio Fuel Corporation, November 1, 1926, to December 31, 1930, exclusive of undistributed earnings of subsidiaries, totaled $130,444,467, while expenses for the same period totaled $20,793,307, or approximately 16 per cent of the gross income, leaving a net income of $109,651,160."

Ryder placed the corporation's investment in the Ohio Fuel Gas Company at $88,752,833, with dividends from it amounting in 1930 to $8,128,761; in 1929, $6,884,886; in 1928 and 1927, $2,000,000 each.

Under questioning by Robert E. Healy, chief counsel, Examiner Ryder testified that the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation was organized in 1923 by the Columbia Gas & Electric Company, and merged into the corporation in 1926, had returned in three years a total of $2,750,000 in dividends to the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation on a capital investment of $1,216,472. It paid, Ryder said, $2,250,000 in 1928; $2,000,000 in 1929, and $1,500,000 in 1930.

of the Fulton National bank, and he will include these late subscriptions in his list.

Mr. Shelton and J. Hope Tigner, chairman of the Fulton county committee, presided at the meeting. Mr. Shelton announced that he had appointed Ben T. Huie as chairman of a committee of former service men who will work for memberships in the league. This committee will be composed of veterans of all wars in which America has participated. Mr. Huie reported seven new memberships for this committee.

Mr. Shelton said he had received a report from W. S. Rowell, of Rome, that 100 members had been obtained in Floyd county and that still more would be obtained. He also read optimistic reports from other counties.

"These good reports are coming in because of the good work you men are doing here in Fulton county," Mr. Shelton said.

Congratulations were given by the committee to former Mayor J. N. Ragdale for a personal subscription of $10 and two new members he obtained himself.

Mr. Tigner called for reports from the various workers. L. Marvin Roberts, of Buchanan, turned in eight new members, making 61 members for that community; C. P. Vaughn, mayor of Roswell, reported 10 new members.

"Roosevelt is the town in which the grandmother Mrs. Frank D. Roosevelt was born," he said. "Our citizens take a deep interest in the careers of the Roosevelts."

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Comptroller Charles W. Berry estimated at a press conference at city hall today that the 1933 basic tax rate would be 2.43 as compared to the current rate of 2.59. He said this was the lowest basic rate in 10 years.

Berry expressed the opinion that the 1933 city budget when it is finally adopted will be about $358,000,000, which is approximately $2,500,000 less than the tentative budget as accepted by the board of estimate yesterday and about $91,000,000 less than the 1932 budget.

Mr. Berry's election to office vacated his two-year term on the executive committee.

GREATER ATLANTA COMMERCIAL GUIDE

Of Carefully Selected, Reliable Business Institutions

EDITED BY VICTOR BARRON

Great Revival in Lumber Industry Seen by Frick Company Officials

BUSINESS GAIN IS WORLDWIDE, OFFICIALS SAY

Largest Saw Mill Builders, With Branches Throughout World, See Vast Demand Ahead. Atlanta Branch Gains.

BY VICTOR BARRON.

Business throughout the nation and in all parts of the world is showing definite improvement.

That assertion comes from W. R. Snively, secretary of Frick Company, the largest builders of sawmill machinery, boilers of all types, steam engines, threshing machinery, gas tractors and power equipment for cotton gins.

Frick Company, founded more than 77 years ago, is located at Waynesboro, Pa., with branch offices in practically all points east of the Mississippi river and in all leading centers of Europe and the Orient.

Mr. Snively while in Atlanta on his usual semi-annual visit not only spoke optimistically of business in general, but traced the history of this famous old concern, which was established by the sons of George Frick. The $7,000,000 institution has no debts and attributes their steady growth to not only the most durable and lasting products manufactured, but to loyal and efficient employees. Mr. Snively himself has been identified with the company for more than 32 years.

There are some employees who have been with the company for nearly half a century.

Marked Gain in Sales.

The Atlanta branch of the company is under the management of Thomas H. Ball, a veteran employee, with a record with the company of more than 28 years. M. T. Small, connected with the Atlanta branch, has a record of 25 years' service. The Atlanta branch covers the territory of Florida, Alabama, North Carolina and Georgia.

Mr. Ball, who visited the Alabama territory this week, declared that the supply business in September amounted to more than three times that of July and that October's volume is even surpassing that of September, orders being received from all sections from mills for parts and other equipment. Collections also have shown marked improvement.

"There is a vast amount of replacement machinery of all kinds, especially sawmill equipment and other machinery which is exposed to weather," Mr. Ball stated.

"Farmers need plows and other agricultural equipment, and with business in general on a definite upgrade, I firmly believe that they will steadily take on new equipment."

Mr. Ball also stated that the company has a large stock of second-hand equipment which is virtually as good as new. A Frick sawmill virtually lasts forever. Several are to be found in Georgia with 40 years' activity, and today perform as good as when first installed.

One of the best illustrations of the durability of a Frick sawmill engine is that the first one made by the founders of this company stands today in the Ford Museum at Dearborn, Mich. After standing out in the weather for years it was put back in its original condition and today functions perfectly.

Returning to business conditions, Mr. Ball declared there is every definite evidence of an improvement in the lumber industry, and the go-getter is preparing to take advantage of the situation by putting his present equipment in good condition so that he may promptly fill orders with well-made lumber.

"We have to offer new and second-hand portable and stationary steam engines, boilers, tractors, portable and stationary gasoline or kerosene burning engines, sawmills, gang edgers, trimmers, sawmill drags, ball-bearing lumber rolls, etc."

Sell Direct to Consumers.

The company has some good second-hand mill or power machinery that will give as good results as new machinery and save consumers money. The company also is prepared to furnish consumers repairs and supplies promptly.

Frick Company sells direct to consumers, or from factory to users, thus saving buyers a considerable amount of money. Representatives of the company go direct to their customers, giving them advice and aiding in every way possible to make them satisfied.

"Farmers are on a more scientific basis than at any time in history, and agricultural colleges and other institutions have played a great part in bringing about this condition," Mr. Snively said. "Farmers are enjoying the comforts and conveniences of the urban people—something unknown 20 years ago."

Plant Covers 30 Acres.

The Atlanta branch of the company is located at 238 Nelson street. Years ago the company erected an office building for their own use on the site now where the new postoffice is being erected. Years ago it bought out the Thomas J. Avery firm.

Frick Company's plant at Waynesboro covers more than 30 acres and the name of the concern is known throughout the world. It is the sec-

The company is the largest builders of sawmill machinery in the world, as well as manufacturing ice machinery, all types of farm implements, power machinery for cotton gins, tractors, parts of all kinds for mills and agricultural use. The company's Atlanta branch is located at 238 Nelson street, S. W. It is under the management of Thomas H. Ball, who has been connected with the company for more than 28 years.

Northwestern Mutual Sets Record Business in Georgia

Further concrete evidence of improved business conditions and a broadening recognition of the value of insurance, Luther E. Allen, general agent in Georgia for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance, reports that the September written business of the general agency was the largest in the history of the agency in Georgia.

The total was $522,500, with 40 agents contributing to the result. Business of the Georgia agency thus far this month has maintained a similar volume.

Mr. Allen congratulated the Georgia agents and urged them to continue the "fine work."

Paul Frazer Leads.

Paul Frazer, of Atlanta, led the agency for the month of September in volume of business, and Willard Murphy, of Macon, led in the number of lives. Mr. Frazer's total being $81,000, while Mr. Murphy's total aggregated $40,000 on nine lives.

Here is further good news—the company's figures for issued business in September show an increase of $5,847,507 over September of last year. This is the first increase the company has shown in 28 months.

"Surely with such a demonstration of accomplishments for September, we have had shown to us that business can be written, and that there is money available to cover the necessary requirements," Mr. Allen said.

Established in 1857.

The Northwestern Mutual is one of the oldest and largest insurance companies in the country, being organized in 1857, commenced business in 1858, and has constantly prospered in its growth and development under a strict adherence to its fundamental principles of security, service and mutualism. The company recently celebrated its diamond jubilee.

The total life insurance in force in the Northwestern at the close of 1931 was $1,000,000,000.

and largest builder of ice machines of any capacity in the world.

Officials of the company are A. O. Frick, chairman of the board; Ezra Frick, president; J. G. Benedict, vice president and general manager; W. R. Snively, secretary; G. H. Kuhn, assistant secretary; M. E. Gordon, treasurer, and W. R. Cline, assistant treasurer.

Branch offices are at Pittsburgh, Pa.; Williamsport, Pa.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Charleston, W. Va.; Salisbury, N. C.; Nashville, Knoxville, Columbia, S. C.; Atlanta, and Batavia, New York.

General Trend Forward.

"It would be unreasonable to expect that our recovery would be unusually rapid and that the upward swing would be continued," adds the association's review.

"While ground will be gained only to yield a portion of the advance, the general trend in the recovery movement, save and except for the corrective interruption, should be forward. Once the recovery movement gains speed, in the latter stages it is usually easily accelerated when inventories are bare and potential demands for normal wants as heavy as they are today."

MRS. SUSAN W. BECKER
PASSES AT AGE OF 92

Beloved Woman of "Old South," Friend of Lee, Was Ill for Year.

Mrs. Susan W. Becker, 92, one of the oldest surviving women of the old south, died late Friday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Freeman, 500 Peoples street, S. W., after an illness of more than a year.

Mrs. Becker, whose experiences prior to and during the Civil War were replete with glamorous incidents, fell and broke her hip about 13 months ago, and had been in declining health since that time.

Perhaps no other woman now living saw more of the innermost struggles of the south immediately before and during and after the war between the States than Mrs. Becker. She was born in Gainesville on January 14, 1840, the daughter of Dr. Richard Banks, an eminent north Georgia physician. She and the late Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton were schoolmates together, and as a belle, Mrs. Becker often traveled by stage coach to Atlanta to shop among the stores that were scattered along what now are Whitehall and Peachtree streets.

In 1841 Mrs. Becker made a stage-coach trip to Charleston, S. C., and there was met by her fiancé, Walter Brewster, brilliant young officer at the Citadel. They were married, and the States then struggled. She met the generalissimo of the Gray forces, General Robert E. Lee, and they sat at the same table and chatted about the troublesome time.

THE CORNER HAS BEEN PASSED.

Heartening indications of steadily strengthening conditions in wholesale and retail trade are contained in the reports from the editors of 115 of the country's outstanding publications to Associated Business Papers, Inc., of New York—reports that are substantiated by statistics from representative businessmen in every state in the Union, made public by Standard Statistics Company.

It is encouraging rather than otherwise that the editors of the papers reporting to Associated Business Papers find to find any great forward surge, but that the improvement in conditions is shown by general progress in department store sales, advertising and other barometers of business, such as electric power consumption and the movement of freight.

As has been the history with former depressions, textiles, shoes and other comparatively low-value necessities, are leading in the recovery. As reported in The Constitution during the past two weeks, the cotton mills of the south are rapidly approaching a normal output, while the business papers' tabulation contains reports from shoe factories telling of capacity production.

Standard Statistics Company deals with cold facts and figures. Especially significant is its definite and unqualified statement, based on the composite expression of opinion of 550 representative business concerns throughout the United States, that "the crisis of the depression and the low point of business activity were passed early last summer."

Unquestionably the world-wide nature of the present depression will tend to make the recovery in the United States slower than in the case of other economic disturbances from which the country has suffered in the past. But, as pointed out by these more than 500 business leaders, even if the prospect of gradual improvement is not "outstandingly encouraging to those who had hoped for a rapid return of prosperous conditions, at least it is important to know that unmistakable signs are at last visible of a throwing off of the depressed feeling to which business has been subjected."

The south is fortunate that it is in the vanguard of the turn towards better times, as evidenced by an Associated Press summary reporting that "Dixie has started a deliberate climb up the stairs of the business graphs."

Certainly the time has come when there is no possible excuse for pessimism, but when everybody, optimists and pessimists alike, should put their shoulder to the wheel so that the return to normalcy may be accelerated in every way possible.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

Commenting on the appointment in New Hampshire of a state-wide commission on highway safety, the Detroit News feels a similar step in Michigan would be a good policy, "in view of the growing sentiment in favor of doing something to make drivers of motor cars more careful and more responsible."

In the well-governed Dominion of Canada several provinces have already enacted laws making it necessary for the financially irresponsible to furnish protection for possible victims before they can secure a driving license.

Every state in the United States should have a similar law so that innocent users of the highways may expect at least financial recompense for injuries and property damage caused by the carelessness or recklessness of other motorists.

The need for such a law in Georgia is strikingly illustrated by a series of recent crashes on one of the main highways of north Georgia.

An Atlanta and his family while proceeding at a moderate rate were crashed into, from the rear, resulting in the wrecking of his car and serious injury to himself and his wife, who was thrown into the middle of the highway. Another car passing at the time was wrecked when it was forced to take to the ditch to avoid running over the insensible form of the Atlanta woman, all of the occupants of that car also being so badly injured as to force their removal to a hospital.

A short time later a truck crashed into the wreckage and its two occupants were seriously injured.

The only person to whom these injured could look for restitution for the damage done their cars, and for the payment of hospital bills, was the driver of the car responsible for the first crash.

But he had no insurance, owned no property and his four-year-old car was almost a total wreck. Those who suffered and lost because of his negligence can never expect any material recompense for their pain and financial loss.

That such a condition should be permitted is inexcusable. The automobile has been labeled by the supreme court of the United States as a "potential instrument of death" and its use should be granted only to those of proven ability to operate it, and only after proper safeguards for the interest of those that may be injured by it are furnished.

OFFENDING A FRIEND.

Recent expression by K. K. Kawakami, best-known Japanese correspondent in America, of the opinion that Secretary of State Stimson's resignation might be expected because he had "overplayed his hand" in his attitude on the far eastern situation, leads the New York Herald-Tribune to come to Mr. Stimson's defense.

The Tribune, in its usual zeal to defend the Hoover administration, is led to an over-statement of fact as badly in error as it would seem to be the case of Mr. Kawakami's opinion, expressed in an interview in Shanghai.

The Herald-Tribune is probably correct in its position that there is no basis in fact in Mr. Kawakami's prediction, but it takes in too much territory in the statement that "there is not the slightest reason for believing that Secretary Stimson's personal view of the Japanese career in Manchuria is not . . . representative of American opinion at large."

That is not the case but, what is more to the point, public sentiment in this country disapproves of the continuous intervention into the Sino-Japanese embroglio by our state department in the shape of numerous notes, warnings and diplomatic what-ifs.

Had our state department been wise enough to follow the course of the British foreign office we would not have jeopardized a friendship that was of great value to us in the development of our interests in the far east, nor lost a genuine opportunity, because of this friendship, to influence the actions of the Japanese government.

Japan has done in Manchuria what the United States did in the annexation of Texas or the acquisition of the Panama Canal Zone. It is not difficult to picture what the status of Texas would be now had the United States, following the course of Mr. Stimson in the far eastern situation, left it to Mexico.

There is no excuse for deliberately offending a friendly people, as Mr. Stimson did.

So while The Constitution agrees with the Herald-Tribune that Mr. Kawakami's statement was an unwise one, we cannot agree with our New York contemporary that the people of the country as a whole approve of Mr. Stimson's attitude.

A full democratic victory is what is needed, Al Smith asserts—and the republicans foresee.

One man dead in a fight over a Georgia still; a mother and daughter in Florida whipped and told to "stop selling whisky." The "no-bill" experiment!

A large number of those who listened to Roosevelt speak in Indianapolis had their pockets picked, which, no doubt, will be hailed as another reason of democratic inability to protect the people from those who would prey upon them.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Stunting Over Atlantic.

Three more lives seem to have been sacrificed to the craze for trans-Atlantic flights, an endeavor that always gave promise of more personal profit than important results to the science of aviation. Lately there seems to have been added the deliberate pursuit of publicity and if the three passengers on the aeroplane American Nurse, which left New York a few weeks ago and has not been seen since, have indeed lost their lives, it might almost be said that their death brings the first note of seriousness into a tale of reckless and almost suicidal flights.

Perhaps the pilot was in earnest; but the nurse who was to descend in a parachute upon Florence "in honor of Florence Nightingale" and the doctor who was to take with him an armory of instruments in order to test the mental and physical effects of trans-Atlantic flights on those who take part in them, sounded more like beings invented for the benefit of more sensational flights. If they are now dead, these were indeed tragic comedians, remarks the Guardian editorially. But if they are still alive, they are now dead, these were indeed tragic comedians, remarks the Guardian editorially. But if they are still alive, they are now dead, these were indeed tragic comedians, remarks the Guardian editorially.

And, in any event, there are some signs of discouragement from public opinion; it is said that the United States is turning against these games of death and that the "Flying Family," which just, but only just, managed to make the winning hazard, unless it returns home, is not so unsatisfactory. If there is a slump in publicity there will be a slump in the number of attempts.

Experiments On Dogs.

Some time ago considerable attention and criticism were aroused by a proposition to hold an international competition in aid of dental research, which was to consist in experiments on dogs through the artificial infection of their teeth.

The proposal, which was on the agenda of the summer conference of the International Dental Federation, met with the disapproval of the British Dental Association and of a large number of dog-lovers in that country. The home secretary allied himself with this opinion and in answer to a letter has indicated that, unless better arguments are adduced on the other side, he would refuse to grant licenses for such experiments should any be applied for. Since these licenses are required by law before any experiments can take place, it seems as though, at any rate in this country the last has been heard of the proposed experiment.

Without a subsidy from the farmers or even a luncheon engagement with the elevator men of the country we have been carrying on in this column a quiet campaign to induce more people to eat more wheat in the national war of wheat. The results of our campaign are indicated by the price of 2-1/2 cents a pound to the farmer. Although health is derived from the benefits people have derived from eating this wheat.

It is the wheat you buy by the bushel, peck or pound that is the wheat you eat. It is the wheat you eat that is the wheat you eat. It is the wheat you eat that is the wheat you eat. It is the wheat you eat that is the wheat you eat.

So long as the taste suits you, it is healthful no matter how short a time it has been cooked, or even if it has been cooked and then soaked in water, cracked or grinding and soaking in water makes the wheat cook more quickly.

Georgia Heroes Of The World War

BLANTON WINSHIP, colonel, 110th infantry, 28th division, American Expeditionary Force, awarded the Croix de Guerre of France for heroic action in action in the Meuse-Argonne, November 9, 1918, near Lachaux, France.

While commanding his regiment, Winship, from his post on the progress of a daylight raid on the enemy by a detachment of his officers and men, Colonel Winship discovered the enemy's position and led his men forward under intense rifle, machine gun and shell fire, and covered the exposed flank, advancing over a deep tank obstruction and through enemy wire to their second line, destroying several machine guns and killing many of the enemy.

His prompt and fearless action enabled the main raiding party to accomplish its mission, and his personal conduct was an inspiration to the entire unit. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre of France for heroic action in action in the Meuse-Argonne, November 9, 1918, near Lachaux, France.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT OUILLEN

My dear Louise: Yesterday I noticed, for the first time, that you have learned the feminine trick of making your smile say one thing while your eyes are saying another.

It is a useful trick when some bore has you in a corner, but eventually it will cost you a great deal more than it is worth.

Quit it now before it becomes a habit. You didn't develop it intentionally, but as a kind of instinctive defense. You were caught in a situation where you were in duty bound to appear interested though you felt no interest at all. And rather than seem impolite, you assumed a smile that indicated pleased attention and wore it as camouflage while your wits went woolgathering.

Nearly everybody in a similar situation does the same thing. But patient mothers, middle-aged spinsters who teach school and the wives of big-talking men use this method of defense so often that it becomes second nature and then they begin to lose friends.

They never listen to anybody. Merely pretending to listen has become a fixed habit they cannot break. The moment another person begins to talk, they assume their mechanical smile to show how interested they are and at once begin to think of something else.

But they don't fool anybody. The smile is too obviously a fake. The dullness of their eyes gives them away. And the person who is trying to interest them feels just resentment.

Good manners, however, they may be defined, have the same intent and purpose in all lands. The purpose is to please the other fellow and make him feel that he is a person of consequence.

One way to make him feel that way is to listen while he talks. If you fail to listen, you seem rude. And you double the rudeness if you merely pretend to listen and thus indicate your belief that he is simple enough to be fooled by your pretense.

Better avoid play-acting, Honey. Either listen courteously and intelligently or frankly turn your back. A frozen smile of pretended interest is more offensive than a yawn.

Health Talks

THE SURPLUS OF THE STAFF LIFE.

When the venerable conductor started this game of teaching people how to keep well, the majority of his questions were in the line of "What shall I take for so and so?"

The young ones grew up and then the majority of his correspondents wanted to know what they should eat for what they thought ailed 'em. They married and multiplied, and the second generation took most of the joy out of the game, at least for me, by importuning me everlastingly to give 'em lists of things they should not eat for hypothetical ailments they discovered in the magazines.

5,000 Made Homeless By Flames in Japan

TOKYO, Saturday, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Thirteen hundred houses were destroyed by fire early today in the town of Komatsu, on the coast of the Japan sea 180 miles west of Tokyo.

Five thousand persons were known to be homeless when the conflagration broke out at 10 o'clock and destroyed three-fourths of the town, early dispatches said.

They gave meager details and failed to include any information as to casualties.

Komatsu is 20 miles west of Kanazawa, and is a town of 12,000 population.

"I have been advised that guilt for misuse of the official franking privilege involves a penalty of $300 for each individual offense, in which event it is probable that Mr. Mills over government something like $1,500,000 in penalties."

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, on his way to make a sound wagon campaign tour of North Dakota in behalf of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, asserted he is through trying to get a hearing in the Senate.

"I decided to go to Madison Square Garden to hear Calvin Coolidge make an address in support of the campaign of President Hoover for re-election," said the senator.

"I went right up to the door and a big policeman stopped me. Long said: 'Have you got an invitation?'"

The policeman asked, "No, sir. Well, then you can't come in," he said and I didn't get in."

envelopes which carry a notice to the effect that their utilization for private use to avoid postage is a violation of law, for which the penalty is $300.

"Mr. Mills apparently saved 6 cents on each envelope mailed. I have no way of knowing how many mailings there were but if the number reached only 5,000 then the secretary of the treasury saved $300 for himself or for the republican national committee.

This expense, along with the expense of preparing the copies of the documents and the cost of materials used, was added to the burden of the nation's taxpayers.

WALKER LOST BET, DANCER DECLARES

Betty Compton Says She Got $7,000 From Jimmy But It Was a Wager.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Miss Betty Compton—"if you must be truthful I am a dancer, but if you like to flatter call me actress"—herself tore away today whatever mystery surrounded her name in the Seabury inquiry, and talked frankly of her friendship for James J. Walker and of oysters.

It was, it appears, her fondness for the tender bivalves that brought her back to New York after 18 months in France and Canada.

"One really can't you know, get good oysters abroad."

Facing interviewers for the first time since the autumn of 1933, Miss Compton, as quoted by the World Telegram, was asked about a $7,000 check which figured in the Walker removal hearings before Governor Roosevelt, as having passed between the mayor and an unnamed person.

"Yes, I received it," she answered promptly. "Not from him (the mayor) directly, but through Saling Baruch & Co. Incidentally, one of the things Mr. Walker did at the hearing, in my opinion, was to tear the veil from my identity. I didn't want to be madame and there was no reason for me to be. The money was in payment of a bet. We are very good friends and that is all."

Miss Compton said she had not seen the former mayor since she married Edward Durey Dowling, a motion picture director, nearly two years ago. She divorced Dowling within a month and sailed for Europe.

She lived quietly, she said, in a little house near Cannes.

She denied threats caused her to leave America.

She denied she ever had received a letter of credit from Mr. Walker or that she was in financial troubles.

"I've been in 14 shows and they've all been financial successes."

Atlanta Girl Injured In Crash on Highway

Two Wesleyan College students, Miss Modest McPherson, of Atlanta, and Miss Betty Hunt, of Savannah, were slightly injured Friday afternoon when their automobile overturned on the highway between Griffin and Macon when they swerved sharply in an effort to avoid striking a child who ran into the highway.

The child is said to have run abruptly in front of their car on their return trip, and Miss McPherson, who was driving, swerved the machine suddenly to avoid striking it. Both students received minor bruises and lacerations.

Circus Will Arrive Today For Two Big Performances

Clyde Beatty and Nero, the youthful animal trainer and the lion that attacked him last winter, who will be seen in Atlanta this afternoon and tonight with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus at the Highland avenue circus grounds.

The city's population will today be augmented by 1,200 persons, who will arrive early this morning, and a tented city, of 30 "white-tops," will be erected at the Highland avenue circus grounds to care for this increase.

For today the huge Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, consisting of its own special trains, will arrive over the Southern railroad from Birmingham, Ala. Performances are scheduled to start at 2 and 8 o'clock, with the doors opening one hour earlier, allowing a trek through the big menagerie before the performances begin.

This will be the first appearance in Atlanta of the Hagenbeck-Wallace show in several years. Since its last visit it has been built into one of the two largest in the world, and known as "The Highest-Class Circus on Earth." One of the outstanding features is the menagerie, said to be the largest one on tour.

The highlight of the performance, of course, is Clyde Beatty, the youthful wild animal trainer, who enters a steel arena with 40 wild and ferocious, jungle-bred lions and tigers—the most dangerous feat ever before attempted by a trainer.

Among the other thrills is the act in which a man, "The Great Wild," is actually shot from the mouth of a huge cannon, and Rajah, the elephant that carries his trainer, around the hippodrome track with his head in his mouth.

Another will be the Ballet troupe of high-wire performers, a family group consisting of two brothers and their 19-year-old sister. Each member of the act does a thrilling routine on the high wire, but the climax of the act is the building of a human pyramid, three high, on the slender wire stretched across the big top far up under the canvas peak, with the girl occupying the topmost position. There is no net beneath them.

And, for good measure, additional thrills will be furnished by a big collection of aerialists, prominent among them being the Jarkonskys and the Sierist troupe of fliers; the Quinn sisters, European trapeze performers;

the Wingert trio of head balancers on trapeze, and scores of iron-jaw girls in amazing aerial displays.

Horses and zebras appear with the rings filled with wild and domestic animals at the same time, and in another display, Rudy Rudenoff presents over 60 liberty horses at one time, in addition to a track full of trained horses ridden by expert horsemen.

There are 30 big and little elephants with the show this year. Seventy-five clowns keep the humorous side of the lengthy program afloat, and in the big menagerie will be found numerous rare and interesting animals.

Several baby animals are additional sights. The newest of arrivals is a baby zebra born three days ago.

Following the afternoon and night performances here today, the huge show will move to Knoxville, Tenn., where performances are scheduled for Monday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR GROUPS MEET TODAY

More than 500 officers and delegates of the northwest district of the Georgia State Christian Endeavor Union will meet at Gordon Street Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock this afternoon to open a two-day convention. Following the registration of delegates, a song service and opening devotion will be conducted by Dr. S. S. Daughtry, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church. The address of welcome will be given by Everett Matthews, president of the Atlanta union.

The convention banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the church.

$8,999.32 EXPENDED ON SMITH CANDIDACY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith reported to the senate campaign expenditures committee today that he spent $8,999.32 in his unsuccessful candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination this year.

The 1928 democratic standard bearer said he received contributions totaling $9,000, including $4,500 from William English, $2,000 from Charles Harwood, $1,500 from Herbert B. Swope and $1,000 from Mrs. M. Rumsey.

The Smith report was submitted at the request of Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, chairman of the committee, who has written to all candidates.

Smith said his expenditures, principally at the Chicago convention, were:

Salaries, $600; telephone and telegraph, $150; express charges, $71; buttons, $100; railroads, $3,500; transportation, $1,033; and hotel rooms, headquarters, meals, $2,636.

Smith wrote the committee as follows: "My candidacy for the democratic nomination for president consisted essentially of a two weeks' trip which I made to the Chicago convention (democratic national convention) accompanied by a group of personal friends, practically all of whom paid their own traveling expenses and hotel bills."

"I had no political committee advancing or attempting to advance my candidacy; no chairman, no treasurer. There may have been political committees in a few states for primary candidates which used my name to further their creation; I did not authorize the creation of any such committees and of course have no knowledge of their names or the names of their chairmen or treasurers."

ROOSEVELT ACCUSED BY SENATOR HASTINGS

New York Governor Once Director in Holding Company, Says Solon.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Oct. 21.—(AP) Senator Daniel O. Hastings, assistant republican eastern campaign manager, said in an address tonight that Governor Roosevelt in 1928 was a director in a large "holding company" and as such was connected "with the Consolidated Automatic Merchandizing Corporation, a slot machine trust."

After referring to a number of Roosevelt's speeches and magazine articles, one of them entitled, "Theft Within the Law—Holding Company Evil Responsible for Much of Our Present Distress," Hastings described the history of the company in which he said Roosevelt was a director.

Then he declared: "Bear in mind that I do not in any sense charge him (Roosevelt) with fraud or attempted fraud. So far as I know, he may have been as innocent of wrong doing, as any man could be. He may have simply been the victim of shrewd and unscrupulous promoters."

"But when he complains about the 'flotation of a twentieth century Mississippi bubble on the sea of popular ignorance' when he does this in the year 1928 after he had been elected by the democratic party for the presidency of the United States; then I say that it is important for the people of this country to know what Franklin D. Roosevelt's attitude was with respect to this kind of transactions but four years previous."

In describing the company, Hastings said: "The company of which he (Roosevelt) was a director was the Consolidated Automatic Merchandizing Corporation. It was organized in the month of May, 1928, for the purpose of acquiring the stock of five existing corporations. The principal business of this corporation was the manufacture and licensing of slot machines."

"This company was purely a holding company, the kind of companies that Governor Roosevelt so strongly condemns."

LECTURE ON FIRST AID GIVEN BY H. S. STUDENTS

Asserting that the 100,000 accident fatalities last year could have been cut in half with prompt first aid, Dr. Otis Marshall, field representative of the American Red Cross, spoke to the upper classmen of Boys' High school Friday, under auspices of the Atlanta Red Cross chapter. In his talk, Dr. Marshall explained simple methods for caring for shock, hemorrhage, and broken bones with practical demonstrations.

Dr. Marshall's task is teaching lay instructors in first aid in order that they may teach the public. He also carries on his private practice.

Grace Moore and Richard Crooks Superb in Charming Joint Concert

Grace Moore, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Richard Crooks, tenor of that same famous orchestra, opened the season for the All-Star Concert Series Friday evening at the city auditorium with a sensational successful concert.

A joint vocal recital seemed to a large and enthusiastic audience in vocal art.

Art was the reigning god of this concert by two superb artists, whose interpretations were ever imbued with infinite fineness. It would not be exaggeration to say that the singing of Richard Crooks and Grace Moore is as divine as one could ask for in vocal art.

Richard Crooks opened the program with a group of songs from Schubert's "Die Schone Mullerin," putting into them all the tenderness, the liquid beauty of a lovely tenor, the ethereal quality of superb tones, making them individual masterpieces. When he sang his whole soul seems to be imbued with the intensity of the meaning of the song, and this is portrayed to his audience in such a manner as to hold them enthralled. His encore was from the same work.

Grace Moore is one of those rare individuals whom the gods seem to have endowed with everything—grace, beauty, charm, personality, and talent—a combination that wins her audience and binds her to their hearts.

Her first number, "Air de Lis," from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue," revealed her unusual art in an exquisite interpretation. In the numbers that followed—Poulain's "Les Cygnes Noirs," "Bonjour, Suzon," of Delibes, "Waltz," Arensky-Koshetz, and Fauré's "Toujours"—she accomplished that most difficult thing in "concert work," creating an atmosphere around each song and living with her audience in that atmosphere. The "Gavotte" from Massenet's "Manon" was her encore.

After intermission—and may it be said here that Atlanta audiences should remember that intermissions do not last for hours and resume their seats before the last number of the group following—Ma. Crooks repeated his first triumph in a masterfully interpreted group which included "Hav' You Seen But a Whyte Lillie Grow," "Gloria," Morgan, the aria "Le Reve," from "Manon," and "Quella," from Verdi's "Rigoletto." Graciously responding to extended applause, she offered "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Because," and "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak.

Ma. Moore returned to captivate and thrill with the loveliness of her voice in a Spanish and English group among them "Tus Ojillos Negros" and "Seguidilla," by De Falla; "Thistle Down," by Beecher; "By the Bend of the River," Edwards, and "Joy" by Cadman. Her encores were "Love's Hour," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, which she sang in one of her moving pictures, "Jenny Lind," "Love Come Back To Me," given by popular request; and Strickland's "Ma Lullaby."—MOZELLE HORTON.

Three Suits Upheld Against Coca-Cola

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The appellate division of the supreme court today upheld the refusal of Justice Albert Cohn to dismiss three $250,000 libel suits brought by Mirrors Co., Inc.; Loft, Inc., and the Happiness Candy Stores, Inc., against the Coca-Cola Company.

The plaintiffs alleged publication of a letter, supposedly written by the Coca-Cola Company, in which the writer claimed $10,000 from each of the plaintiffs under the terms of an award, allegedly promised in newspaper advertisements, to anyone who could show that Pepsi-Cola was being substituted for Coca-Cola or any other soft drink selling for five cents.

The award was claimed on the basis that such substitutions had been made.

Reviewing the Shows

Perfect Production Assured at Erlanger

Director Rowland G. Edwards, of the Atlanta Permanent Players, who make their local debut at the Erlanger theater on Monday night, stated Friday that he was entirely satisfied with the final rehearsals of "Death Takes a Holiday," the great New York stage success which will be their first vehicle.

"The play," Mr. Edwards said, "is most unusual and carries an appeal for every type of audience. These very factors make it one which calls upon all the ability of the players who enact its roles. Atlanta will see her new company in a play, next week, which will prove most revealing in regard to the really splendid art of the entire playing organization."

New Georgia Feature Is "Six Hours To Live"

"Six Hours to Live," which gives Warner Baxter the most dramatic role of his career, will be the film feature on the Georgia's program for three days only, starting today.

Sharing top-line honors with Baxter are John Boles and Miriam Jordan, the latter a beautiful young English actress, who makes her screen debut in this feature. George Marion, Irene Ware and Beryl Mercer are also in the cast. "Six Hours to Live" was adapted by Bradley King from the original story, "Auf Wiedersehen," by Gordon Morris and Morton Baruch.

Crawford Is Superb
In "Rain" at New Grand

It is to be hoped that United Artists, if they have, they should by all means reserve a place for "Rain," the picture which opened an exclusive-run engagement of one week at the new Loew's Grand theater yesterday. The performance of Joan Crawford in the famous role of Sadie Thompson, and Walter Huston as "Rev. Davidson" must, some way, be preserved for the view of future generations when they wish to see the great things done by the screen players of 1932.

"Rain" of course, has become one of the half dozen great classics of the modern theater. Ever since it was first produced in New York with Jeanne Eagels in the central role, it has been the delight of theatergoers all over the world. The part of Sadie Thompson is one that every actress yearns to try and the story is one that every producer yearns to stage.

Joan Crawford, however, has added a distinctly new interpretation to the already long list of "Sadie Thompsons." It is emphatically her own, different from but hardly less great than that of Miss Eagels or the silent screen version created by Gloria Swanson.

And Walter Huston, regarded by many as the finest male actor we have today, "Rev. Davidson" that is stupendous in its power and understanding of character.

The production is all that could be desired. Perhaps there is rather too much "atmosphere" in the early part of the picture, but this is compensated for by the marvelous camera shots. Director Lewis Milestone has succeeded in transferring the intangible spirit of the story onto the screen—and what more need be said?

Fox Has Fine Picture In "Thirteen Women"

"Thirteen Women," which, when written by Tiffany Thayer, became the sensation of the year among novels, is coming to the Fox theater today for a week's run as an equally sensational motion picture. This startling story of the power of suggestion to work havoc in the lives of a group of young women is something new, something shocking yet something charming and beautiful for the screen. It will undoubtedly provoke as much heated discussion and fascinated comment as a picture as it did as a book.

The producers have provided a cast not only containing some of the most popular screen players of the day, but a cast also notable for the perfect way in which each player fits the type of character portrayed. Outstanding names include Myrna Loy, Ricardo Cortez, Irene Dunne, Mary Duncan, Florence Eldridge and Jill Esmond.

In addition to this great feature the Fox, now under the management of Enrico Laide, will present Jimmy Beers at the console of the big organ in another of his popular organologues and a group of carefully selected short subjects that in themselves provide splendid bargain price entertainment.

Great Gridiron Story
For Rialto Patrons

The greatest football story ever put upon the screen, "That's My Boy," opens a week's run at the Rialto theater this morning. The story was written by Francis Wallace, who in this has far outdone his previous efforts in "Touchdown" and "Huddle." It was produced by Columbia and Richard Cromwell, Dorothy Jordan and Mae Marsh are the principals in the cast. In addition there is in some of the most thrilling and authentic football sequences ever shown, the entire personnel of the 1931 national champions, the University of Southern California.

The story is packed with human triumphs and human weaknesses. There is a delightful love story and, toward the end, a suspenseful action which brings many screen audiences to cheers that rival the cheers of the fans in the great stadium on the screen. Nothing more moving has been devised for the screen than the plot development that turns the jeers of 70,000 onlookers into cheers, when they find out the truth about their football idol, "Snakelike Scott."

This is another of the super-features playing at the Rialto for the "Columbia Prosperity Month," which is bringing some of the greatest screen releases of the year to Manager W. T. Murray's popular downtown house. In addition there will be a splendid group of short screen subjects as added attractions.

Radio Stars Feature
New Paramount Film

"The Big Broadcast," a romantic comedy set against a background of a radio studio, and featuring many of radio's greatest personalities in company with a cast of screen favorites, opens today at the Paramount for an exclusive run of one week.

Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway and his orchestra, Burns and Allen, the Street Singer, and Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, are cast with Stuart Erwin, Leila Hyams and other movie players in the picture.

When you hear Cab Calloway mentioned, you expect the hottest jazz and in this picture he does "Minnie the Moocher" in a blazing manner. The Mills Brothers have a style of their own and makes your feet want to move. The Boswell Sisters and harmony are synonymous, and "Little" Kate Smith, with her becoming personality, is still singing the song millions love, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," and too, there is Bing Crosby, crooning and making love.

The short features on this program consist of Paramount sound news and a Spotlight.

"Girl Crazy" at Poncey.

Today two of the greatest comedians of the screen are at the Poncey de Leon, Wheeler and Woolsey, in "Girl Crazy," which is said to be their crowning comedy festival.

WATER PURIFICATION
COURSE TO END TODAY

Georgia's first water purification course, to which water dispensers from the entire state were invited by Georgia Tech and the state department of health, will come to a close this afternoon.

More than 100 delegates from all sections of the state have been present.

ELEANOR HOLM, MORENO
SUED IN AUTO MISHAP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Eleanor Holm, Olympic swimming champion, and Antonio Moreno, screen actor, were defendants today in a $15,000 damage suit resulting from a motor car accident.

The damages are claimed by Olive Worum, nurse, and Pearl May Tumarin, aged 6, on charges that the swimmer, driving Moreno's car, struck them last August. Moreno was not in the car at the time.

Dr. Starnes on Stand As Trial Is Recessed

With the defendant on the stand, trial of Dr. W. A. Starnes on narcotic charges Friday was adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning by Federal Judge E. M. Candlerwood. Dr. Starnes will take the stand Monday for further questioning by his attorney, Frank Doughman, it was said.

Fine of $250 Paid, Dobbs Is Released

Ex-Alderman W. Gay Dobbs Friday was a free man following payment of a $250 fine. Dobbs' sentence of 12 months on a city hall bribery charge was commuted Thursday by Mayor James L. Key, who ordered Dobbs to be paroled on payment of the fine.

The fine was paid Friday morning at the office of the solicitor-general by a man who described himself as a friend of Dobbs, and who asked that the receipt be made out in Dobbs' name. Dobbs entered the chain gang less than 90 days ago after obtaining three respites in an effort to avoid the gang sentence.

BEAMAN TO SUE CITY FOR AMENDMENT FUND

Asserting that the $250 appropriation the mayor and council made to fight a proposed constitutional amendment exempting intangibles from taxation by cities, counties and school districts is illegal, Henry A. Beaman, DeKalb legislator, and author of the amendment, asserted Friday he will enter suit against the 39 members of council, Mayor James L. Key and B. Graham West, city controller, to force reimbursement of the treasury.

Beaman was prepared Friday morning to enjoin payment of the sum to Miss Mildred Webster, executive secretary of the committee fighting the proposal, when he learned payment already had been made. He then began a move to enjoin Miss Webster from spending the money, but she informed him it had been expended already.

MILLER FAVORS VOTE ON SUNDAY THEATERS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Governor B. M. Miller today returned the Sunday amusements bill to the house with an amendment recommending that citizens in cities with more than 100,000 population be permitted to vote on the question of Sunday movies and vaudeville at a special election before the measure might apply.

The Goodwyn bill would legalize such amusements at moving picture shows, golf, baseball and tennis on the sabbath. The governor's proposed amendment did not touch on golf, baseball or tennis.

FRENCH UNDECIDED ON PAYMENTS TO U. S.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The problem of payment by France of the December war debt installment due the United States appeared to be wide open tonight after several days of discussion in the press and parliamentary circles.

The government, which has been under fire from sections of the press—particularly since Premier Herriot's appearance Wednesday before the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies—made it known semi-officially that no decision has been reached regarding debts. The entire problem is expected to come up in the chamber next week.

JOBLESS BATTLE POLICE IN SHAKESPEARE'S CITY

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A group of 300 unemployed from the Manchester district, marching to London for the national unemployed demonstration there next week, engaged in a free-for-all battle with police here today and attempted to demolish the workhouse where they slept last night.

One policeman was injured and 50 of the marchers required medical attention for injuries before they could continue their journey toward London.

ALBANIAN MINISTER DENIED ENTRY TO U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Bishop Fan Stilian Noli, former prime minister of the Albanian republic, was stopped from entering the country when he arrived on the liner New York today.

Bishop Noli has been a political exile since King Zog elevated himself from a generalship to the throne. He last visited America in 1921.

When the ship docked, his passport and other papers were picked up and sent to Ellis Island by immigration inspectors. Before he can be permitted to enter the country corroborating papers must be obtained from the American consul at Hamburg.

NEGRO HELD JUSTIFIED
IN KILLING FLORIDIAN

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today held that Henderson Tyler, aged negro, apparently was justified in killing Robert Harvey Prevatt, 32-year-old white man, earlier in the day.

The jury heard testimony of Tyler and several other witnesses that Prevatt came to the negro's home and demanded entrance and that the negro shot and killed him with a shotgun while he forced his way into the house despite the negro protests. The witnesses said Prevatt apparently had the wrong house.

Vanderbilt-Georgia Game Will Be Interesting, McGugin Says

FAVORS TECH OVER TARHEELS; PICKS TULANE

Kentucky Will Have Real Test Against Virginia Poly.

By Dan E. McGugin.

Head Football Coach, Vanderbilt University.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 21.—In the fourth Saturday of Southern conference football, the Vanderbilt-University of Georgia contest here looms extremely interesting.

Georgia was held to a tie by North Carolina last week, but the field was bad. Although North Carolina has been defeated by Tennessee and Vanderbilt its team is not a poor one by any means, and while Georgia was defeated by Tulane she showed great scoring possibilities and a very spirited attack.

Vanderbilt cannot hope to be as good this Saturday as she was against Tulane. The heat and the effort put forth will take their toll.

Georgia Tech has a good team and should be able to win from North Carolina. Tech has played some fine games this year with the breaks against her and keeping coming forward with fine team spirit all the time.

There is not much difference between a good team and a great team. While thus far in the season Georgia Tech, Georgia, Auburn, Kentucky and V. P. I. do not appear to be as strong as Tennessee or Alabama, or perhaps quite as strong as Tulane or Vanderbilt, nevertheless they can make a tough battle for any of the conference contenders.

BREATHERS. Alabama and Tennessee have pushovers in Maryland and Mississippi. Florida will have a pretty tough one with North Carolina State and Kentucky will have a real test against V. P. I.

The Tulane-Auburn game should be an interesting affair. Auburn has a brilliant team, beautifully coached, a skillful passing game, some fine running backs in Hitchcock and others and a good line. It is a squad under fine coaching which has been brought forward to about the limit of its capacity, but I do not see how Auburn can defeat Tulane unless the efforts the Green Wave put forth against Vanderbilt should make it materially weaker on Saturday.

In addition to brilliant running and passing and team speed, Tulane has a powerful, hard-charging line and if it functions with all its speed and power it should be too strong for Auburn.

T. S. U. has always played good football and in my judgment will win from Arkansas. South Carolina and Clemson present an ancient rivalry. Each has lost games but there is such intense feeling in their relation that both teams are apt to be at the very top of their ability.

GATORS MYSTERY. We don't know just how good Florida is. She is apt to be very good. She has developed rather slowly but will get a test against North Carolina State which will be a better opportunity for appraisal after this game.

Duke will have a pretty tough afternoon.

THE SPORTLIGHT

Who are the five best football coaches in the game today? This highly interesting query was sprung at a gathering of football writers a night or two ago and the list of candidates named and tagged was longer than one might expect.

When the slates were opened there were named, among others: Howard Jones of Southern California; Lou Little of Columbia; Gil Dobie of Cornell; Pop Warner of Stanford; Andy Kerr of Colgate; Bierman of Minnesota, late of Tulane; Clarke Shaughnessy of Loyola, New Orleans; Madigan of St. Mary's; Casey of Harvard; Sasse of the Army; Sutherland of Pitt, and eight or ten more from various sectors of the country—east, south and west.

The two who seemed to make more lists than any others were Lou Little of Columbia and Howard Jones of Southern California. Several named Notre Dame and Fritz Crisler of Princeton.

The argument finally got around to the old debate of coaches and material—which is the more important—which one does more to make the team?

Many instances were shown where good material, badly handled, got nowhere in particular.

But there were many more cases to show where high-class coaching slipped badly with poor material to send against much stronger man power.

In case of a soggy season or a bad year, the true reason rests far more often with poor material than with poor coaching.

Another Argument. One rather glaring weakness in football's general scheme was also brought to life again.

One writer cited the cases of three football players, unable to make anything approaching the scholastic grade in one university, turning up later with a rival team—and with devastating effect. It happens often.

The wide gap in scholastic requirements is a big football handicap to one university and a big boon to some other.

There have been any number of instances where certain stars, turned away from one university, got back into football later to lead in the overthrow of their first choice.

When this happens you can't expect a coach not to feel a trifle glum about it all.

Another coach lost four such potential stars, due to scholastic deficiencies and several of them were popping at him all season from hostile lines or backfields, causing no small amount of mental anguish.

Naturally there should be a dividing line between universities which demand, say, 15 Carnegie units to get in and those who demand only four or five.

If this were done there would be no further hard feeling and there would also be a much fairer test.

There's no great thrill in throwing pitfalls at a rival when he is allowed to carry a gat.

The Casualty List. Saturday's casualty list in the ranks of the unbeaten can be quite extensive by the time October's twilight settles on a flock of fields.

Those among the unbeaten who face a certain amount of trouble include Stanford, Southern California, Harvard, Pittsburgh, Tulane, Auburn, V. P. I., Kentucky, Colgate, N. Y. U., Purdue, Indiana and even Fordham.

Many of these will escape, to get ready for another test next Saturday but several are bound to drop, thereby reducing the population of Spotless Town by several old inhabitants.

When it comes to the day's attendance figures, Stanford and Southern California will lead the

EDDIE ROMMEL GIVEN RELEASE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Eddie Rommel, knuckle ball pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, was today given his unconditional release by Connie Mack, manager of the club.

"Rommel was a ten-year man, having served with the A's from the start of the 1920 season," said Mack. "Therefore no major league club claiming him on waivers he was entitled to his unconditional release."

Rommel, who lives in Baltimore, learned much of his baseball on the eastern shore of Maryland. He joined the Newark club of the International league in 1918. In 86 games he filled every position but catcher.

The following year he came to Newark after going south with the New York Giants. In 1920 he joined the Athletics. His best season was in 1922 when he won 27 games and lost 15, with a seventh place club.

In the last two or three years he has been more of a relief pitcher than a starting hurler.

Rommel, who is about 35 years old, is the last of the old guard of Athletic players to go.

line with several thousand to spare.

This keen far western war should come close to packing the Palo Alto stadium, which seats 75,000.

There is a double rivalry here—the rivalry between Stanford and Southern California, and the rivalry between supporters backing the Warner system and those backing the Howard Jones system.

Last summer Pop Warner announced that he would use entirely new methods this fall. Whatever new he may have up his well-known sleeve should be unfurled today. For this will be the game he would rather win than any other after pondering the results of the last four years.

The play of both teams carries strong interest since Stanford plays Pittsburgh later on, and Southern California runs against Notre Dame early in December.

One of the big games next week will bring Pittsburgh and Notre Dame together for Notre Dame's first outstanding tilt. It isn't often that Notre Dame waits this long for a hard afternoon, although Carnegie Tech is never a soft spot. Which reminds us that Brown had no idea of pending a peaceful, lazy autumn in arranging a schedule which still calls for Harvard, Colgate, Columbia and Holy Cross.

McGUGIN ASKED TO INVESTIGATE FLORIDA LOOP

Vandy Alumni, of Albany, Protest Star End's Disqualification.

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Vanderbilt alumni here have protested to Coach Dan McGugin against the disqualification of Julian Foster, an end, because of his playing semi-professional baseball this summer and have asked the Vanderbilt coach to make a personal investigation of the Georgia-Florida league's operations.

Vanderbilt authorities yesterday ruled Foster ineligible for further participation in intercollegiate sports with the Commodores because, while playing for the Tallahassee (Fla.) team in the Georgia-Florida league, he played more than the three games per week allowed by Southern conference rules.

INFORMAL GAMES. McGugin yesterday advised President C. P. Miles, of the conference, that Foster had been ruled ineligible because he played in some "informal games," not counted on the regular schedule of the league, in addition to the three games each week.

"We think he was in good faith in playing in these 'informal games,'" McGugin's telegram said, "but we consider him ineligible and will not use him unless it be determined we are in error in our interpretation of the rule."

F. K. (Scotty) Neil, a star player at Vanderbilt several years ago, today forwarded to McGugin details of the league's operation, contending that measures were taken by the loop directors to guard against college players taking part in more than three scheduled games a week.

He pointed out that several other college athletes played in the league only after being assured that their amateur standing would not be affected. He asked that McGugin make a personal investigation.

LEAGUE MEMBER. Albany was a member of the league. Other teams were Thomasville, Moultrie and Tallahassee. He said teams having college players were warned not to permit them to violate Southern conference rules.

President Miles was quoted at Blacksburg, Va., today as saying he knew nothing of the case other than that contained in McGugin's telegram, and that he was not asked for a ruling and that the case was being handled solely by Vanderbilt authorities.

Foster Not Guilty Of Infraction, Report. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—H. Bluestein, business manager of the semi-professional Tallahassee baseball team, today said neither Julian Foster, Vanderbilt football player who was declared ineligible yesterday, nor any other college athlete who played on the local team last summer violated "the spirit of college eligibility rules."

He said Foster and several other college players, including Vernon Close, of Vanderbilt, quit the Tallahassee baseball team when the six-college Georgia-Florida league began playing five games instead of three a week. Close and one or two others left before that time, he said.

Foster may have played in exhibition games in addition to the three league games each week, he said, but if he did it was as an "individual" as a member of the team. The Tallahassee team, he explained, played only three games a week while Foster took part in "pick up" Sunday games with other teams in the league as such did not play more than three games each week, he said.

Bluestein and other directors of the club here said they wanted to help Foster all they could since they were certain he "did not intentionally violate any college association rules."

Russell Wins, 19-0; Star Lineman Hurt

Russell High won his third straight victory by beating Athens High, 19 to 0, Friday afternoon at East Point, but lost the services of Grover Dempsey, a star lineman, who was injured in the fourth play of the game. He was taken to Grady hospital but was permitted to go home after emergency treatment for a slight head injury.

Jack Clay, the ace of the Russell backfield, scored all three touchdowns in an afternoon of brilliant play. He received a 20-yard pass and ran another 20 yards for the first score on the third play of the game. Again in the second quarter, behind me beautiful interference and excellent blocking on the part of Golightly, Clay dashed off tackle for 56 yards and a score. His third touchdown came in the fourth quarter on a short off-tackle spinner play.

Legs of Jackson Are Good as New

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Travis Jackson's legs were made "as good as new" by physicians today and the prediction was made by surgeons that he will be back at his post with the New York Giants next season.

Manager Bill Terry of the Giants announced that an operation performed this morning on the knees of his shortstop was a "big success."

Jackson had a bad cartilage on one knee and a chipped bone on the other. Injuries suffered in play several years ago necessitated the operations. Jackson was brought to a hospital here from his home at Waldo, Ark.

"He'll be back at shortstop when the season opens," Terry said.

COLLEGE TEAMS IN BIG GAMES OVER COUNTRY

Stanford-Southern California; Auburn-Tulane Attract.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—College football moves into the big game front area tomorrow on all major fronts, with the section or national championship hopes of a score of teams more or less heavily involved.

The ranks of the big fellows as yet neither beaten nor tied in the early October skirmishing may be abridged, depleted. Not only do a half-dozen of these leaders clash in such vital contests as the Stanford-Southern California and the Auburn-Tulane games, but other pace setters like Auburn, Florida, Harvard, Pittsburgh, Michigan, Purdue, Notre Dame and Rice all face opposition of varying shades of intensity.

Despite the season's most spectacular offerings thus far, including such glamorous traditional battles as the Yale-Army game at New Haven, the tumult and the roar will reach new heights tomorrow when a half-dozen of these leaders clash in such vital contests as the Stanford-Southern California and the Auburn-Tulane games.

The same game drew 35,000 to the Olympic stadium in Los Angeles last year.

In the east, the N. Y. U-Colgate tussle between two well-matched teams for sectional honors probably will attract 50,000 customers to the Yankee stadium and, for the first time, out-draw the colorful Yale-Army game.

Estimates today were that no more than 40,000 would journey to the Yale bowl, where the Cadets will be the heavy favorites to triumph. This game has usually been a sell-out and last year drew 70,000 fans.

Crowds of 20,000 to 35,000 are expected to see the outstanding games in the midwest, featuring Northwestern's attempt to stop the unbeaten rush of Purdue's Boilermakers at Evanston. This and the Chicago-Louisville tilt, featuring Northwestern's attempt to stop the unbeaten rush of Purdue's Boilermakers at Evanston. This and the Chicago-Louisville tilt, featuring Northwestern's attempt to stop the unbeaten rush of Purdue's Boilermakers at Evanston.

Among others with clean slates, in the east, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Holy Cross, Brown and Harvard figure to post fresh triumphs. The Crimson at Dartmouth's expense, but Pittsburgh may catch a tartar in Ohio State and another Colgate will find a brisk reception against Marquette in Milwaukee.

AUBURN HAS CHANCE. In the south, Virginia Poly looks to have come through a tougher slate so far than Kentucky, but the two are well matched. Meanwhile, Florida is a favorite to beat North Carolina State, Auburn is considered at least a fighting chance, with Kimbrell in the lineup, to upset Tulane, and Georgia should toss a few scares into Vanderbilt's camp.

The big battle in the southwest, between Rice and Texas, at Houston, will be watched by upward of 25,000. While Colorado University, unbeaten in the Rocky Mountain conference, tackles the Colorado Aggies in another feature game.

WOODCOCK ANSWERS CRITICS OF DRY BUREAU

Prohibition Director Addresses Georgia W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Russell New President.

GRiffin, Ga., Oct. 21.—(P)—Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the federal prohibition bureau, Friday night told the Georgia W. C. T. U. what federal officers could and could not do toward stopping the consumption of liquor and urged the union to help by educating the people against the use of alcoholic drinks.

Mr. Woodcock said the federal government legally could stop the manufacture, sale and transportation of liquor but could not touch the private citizen who possesses and drinks it. That phase of enforcement was up to the state officers, he said, and to organizations similar to the W. C. T. U., which can urge and teach observance of the law.

The prohibition director's address closed the annual state W. C. T. U. convention. The meeting was designated as "Young People's Night" and officials estimated 2,000 persons attended.

Augusta was selected for the next convention city and at sessions during the day Mrs. Mary Scott Russell, of Atlanta, had been elected secretary to succeed Mrs. Marvin Williams, of Atlanta. Mrs. Williams was named vice president.

Other officers were re-elected. They are, Mrs. Walter Anthony, Macon, recording secretary and editor of the yearbook; Mrs. Robert L. Miller, Waynesboro, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Wilbur Brown, Griffin, treasurer.

Discussing enforcement of the prohibition laws, Mr. Woodcock said the personnel of his bureau was small and appropriations had been small with congress taking it for granted that the state officers were doing their part by enforcing the state laws.

He said the department often had been criticized for failure to obtain a large percentage of convictions in federal court and replied that 87.5 per cent of the prohibition cases in federal courts resulted in convictions, which he said was a higher percentage than was obtained on any other criminal charge.

Other critics have charged that prohibition cases have flooded the federal courts, he said, and added that in the last two years there had been 7,000 fewer prohibition cases docketed in federal court than during the previous two years.

The co-operation of Georgia officers with the federal agents was praised and H. B. Wright, assistant deputy prohibition administrator for Georgia, praised as one of the department's most efficient men.

The cost of administering the prohibition bureau, Mr. Woodcock said, was largely determined by the co-operation given federal officers by the state, pointing out that it takes twice as much per capita to combat the liquor traffic in New York as it does in Pennsylvania, a neighboring state where, he said, state officers gave excellent co-operation.

The director said he came to Georgia to receive an inspiration from members of the state W. C. T. U. The Rev. Marvin Williams, of Atlanta, who was to address the meeting tonight, was prevented from making the trip by illness.

Threatens He'll Tar, Feather, Burn Auto

Roxley, Ga., Oct. 21.—(P)—Armed by Henry Ford's support of President Hoover, F. Matt Ballard, of this place, has sent to the auto manufacturer the following telegram:

"If you criticize Roosevelt or the democrats again I'll tar, feather and burn my Ford. The south has helped to make your millions. You are very unappreciative."

TWO ROME OFFICERS ACQUITTED OF MURDER

ROME, Ga., Oct. 21.—C. E. Warren and John Adams, suspended Rome policemen, tonight stood acquitted of murder charges in connection with the fatal shooting of Cothan Warren, colored, during a riot on a negro crane.

The jury this afternoon took little over an hour to free the men of guilt in the shooting. The two defendants in statements admitted firing on the negroes, but claimed they fired in the air and straight into the ground, not at the negroes. W. N. Cochran, a third officer named in the indictment, had previously been found not guilty.

GEORGIAN SENTENCED TO LIFE FOR MURDER

QUINCY, Fla., Oct. 21.—(P)—Sentence of life imprisonment was imposed on Jacob Lasseter, 23, of Monticello, Ga., after he changed his plea from not guilty to guilty on a charge of killing John McCranie, aged carpenter.

The body of McCranie, the head fractured by a hammer blow, was found near Midway, 10 miles east of here, June 1.

SOUTHERN WRITERS OPEN 'HOUSE PARTY' AT CHARLESTON

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 21.—(P)—Donald Adams, editor of the New York Times Book Review, opened informal conferences at the "house party" of southern writers here today by declaring that southerners are leading at present in their work with drama, the novel, poetry and history.

Approximately a score of southern writers, editors and others associated closely with literature gathered here today for their second meeting. The first was held last year at Charlottesville, Va.

The group has no formal organization and its membership is not fixed. It plans to assemble whenever and wherever opportunity presents the occasion.

Adams said "the eyes of literary America are on the south" and that writers of this section had contributed notably to the 1932 fall harvest of new books. He said the works were the best he had seen in his experience as a critic. Laurence Stallings drew on his experiences in Hollywood and said that the present stage development in moving pictures gives authors almost no opportunity for expression.

Dubose Heyward, of Charleston and Hendersonville, N. C., welcomed the writers to Charleston.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 21.—(P)—Belief that efforts of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce will eventually result in canalization of the Chattahoochee river to make it suitable for traffic by self-propelled barges is expressed in the annual report of the chamber's secretary.

J. Ralston Cargill, secretary and traffic manager of the chamber, said that the rivers and harbors committee in congress had adopted a $1,770,000 project, calling for completion of the last link in a New Orleans-Apalachicola river waterway and that the "canalization of the Chattahoochee is sure to follow as day follows night."

"Then will be completed the project originated by your secretary-treasurer and traffic manager in 1924 for a deep waterway from New Orleans to Columbus for the economical operation of self-propelled barges. The project since that time has been actively sponsored by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and its inland waterway committee under the able chairmanship of H. H. Swift."

Macon Editor Says Tax Would Increase Revenue by Ten Millions.

PERRY, Ga., Oct. 21.—(P)—W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph and the News, in an address before the Young Democratic Club of Houston county, urged the members to devote their attention to tax reforms in the state, especially the proposed constitutional amendment on intangibles.

Mr. Anderson said the wealth of Georgia had been estimated at approximately four and a half billion dollars and about half of that was in intangibles.

Under the present law, which levies an equal tax on tangible and intangible property and which he described as "oppressive," Mr. Anderson said only about $75,000,000 will be returned from the tax on intangibles as compared with the combined taxes of Georgia counties.

He said under the proposed amendment a 5 mills levy could be placed on intangibles which would return more than $10,000,000 in taxes or more than $10,000,000 more than the present estimated return on intangibles.

Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity Gives Dance Today

rived at daybreak and sojourned the heart of the nightwatchman so that he had let them in and they had slept on the benches outside the governor's office. They had had no food for hours upon hours. Miss Sheppard finally got the warden, the street and fed them hot coffee, eggs, sandwiches, which they ate ravenously, and then she was in a dilemma. Where could she find a mother, wife, child, sisters, of a condemned man? They weren't responsible but they must be placed for the few hours they were here, and they would seem from the street.

And then she bethought herself of all the Community Chest agencies, their separate functions and she recognized at the portals of the gate, the Travelers' Aid Society. If any agency could take care of these bewildered strangers, Mrs. Payne, of the Travelers' Aid, would know who, with motherly compassion, guides the traveler, straightens his pathway and at the same time relieves the city of its burden. And so the Travelers' Aid Society took the pitiful quaint, pot-cots in the Union station, and, may they all sleep as safely they can.

May ye prevail, ye figures, to stop the dome of the capitol! May it guide the minds and hearts of the prison commission; may it bless the benefactors of the Community Chest agencies!

They know what it is all about, these women. They can't told in current men's slang "to go sell their papers." Rather and properly, they are beckoned in. They are consulted and their verdicts acted upon. For they it was who began all this charity business. They it was who first felt the responsibility to fellowman; accustomed as they were to the care of husband, father, children, to maid servant and man servant, to the sturdy and the feeble, to the healthy and the infirm, to the household, and they are the first to hear the call of the distressed. They know what it's about from the beginnings; from the time when they went from their own households to help the sick and weary in the neighborhood, to help bring the new baby into the world, or ease a sudden brow; from the time when a sleeky, windy night found their own families shivering and uncomfortable, and they were the first to succor. Suddenly the memory of the sewing woman and her brood of children and her poor lumps of coal and insufficient coverings set their springs of pity in motion, and they sent the men of the family out with warmth for the bodies and stomachs of that less well-sheltered family.

And when they discovered that all of them were intent upon similar kindnesses, they formed various groups to take care of the ill. And the young; to found an abode for old women; to shelter the incurable. And to maintain these asylums of mercy they inaugurated numerous schemes and plans for the raising of money, and no matter how hard the task, and discouraging the response, work they did, many and many a time during the day, and at night, and upon the sabbath, and upon the most costly every man that came along to beg a pittance for their particular responsibility.

So, when the idea of a great Community Chest for the businesslike solicitation of all the charities came along, and when they knew that they had relieved all collections of funds except the one big drive in the fall, they knew that each of the needs of the community would be apportioned its share of the fund justly and equitably as is possible in human consciousness, then they were elated and bent their energies to the whole task for the allying of human suffering.

"For," said they, "in union there is strength is written on our monetary system. It is the emblem of our 48 united states, each maintaining its autonomy, each co-operating and giving up of the other. So shall it be with our charities; each shall maintain its autonomy, each shall gain strength by union."

And so saying the women's committee of the Community Chest has formed a union of the interests of all the women in Atlanta for the benefit of the community, the sick, the distressed. This example not only will ease physical ailments, but vitalizes every group of people in the city.

Friendly Counsel
BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write to Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Mrs. Chatfield: I have read your column regularly hoping to find a problem like mine but you have not found it. I am the oldest of three sisters and the only one of them unmarried. My sisters have good husbands and a happy home life. I have, since I was grown, longed for a home and family of my own, and since my sister's marriages are so happy my heart aches to find happiness as they have. This is what troubles me. I am 27 and because my sisters were married so much younger than this everyone, even my mother, takes it for granted that I will never marry. Mother constantly tells me that when she is dead she counts on me to look after things for her. I am considered a man-hater, who heaven knows I am anything else. Do you think I should give up and resign myself to the fate of being an old maid? Mother is always reminding me of my age and for this reason I feel that it is stamped on me, though as a matter of fact, I look much younger than my years. Sometimes I feel like giving up, thinking to myself that no man wants to marry a woman nearly 30 years old. Then again I put my hopes in what the future may bring me. Please tell me if it is too late.

ANSWER: Isn't it strange that the people who love us best are often and are the most cruel to us? Of course these loved ones are unconscious of the pain they inflict on us but that doesn't make it any less their bounden duty to discover what makes us happy and what makes us unhappy and to treat us with reference to these discoveries. Particularly it is true that a mother should understand the normal and natural longings of her daughter's heart.

It is true that the average woman wants to be desired, wants to be wooed and won, wants a home of her own and a family of her own. One of the greatest disappointments that can come to a woman is the knowledge that she is not desired by some man. Such a knowledge does more to hurt her spirit than all the other disappointments she experiences.

There is work to be done and you must do it if you would yet lay hold on life and love. If you can swallow your pride and tell your mother the truth it would be a good beginning—but if this is impossible and I can well understand how it might be, you can behave in such a fashion that she may understand the truth without having it forced upon her by frank speech.

Twenty-seven is the very prime of life for a woman. A noted writer, interested in matters of sex and eugenics, one who writes about these subjects without prudery, says that women in their early thirties bear better babies than the very young women. And certainly a woman in her late twenties has a bigger and broader conception of life and love than a younger one. She has tasted loneliness and experienced the suffering necessary to straight thinking. She knows what it means to live in a home that doesn't belong to her.

So, dear young lady, acknowledge to yourself the truth that you are in the market for love. That acknowledgment will help you to engrave the invitation on the retina of your eyes, an invitation at once cordial and so warm that the man who sees it will accept it. Most of us get what we go after in this world, provided we use discretion, exercise patience, and keep the ambition ever before us. This fact accounts for the fortunes that are made by some men, for the political success that is gained by some men, and for full fruition of many a woman's hope.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Stocks took another turn lower today, widening their losses but showing no increase in volume on the way down.

A number of 3 to 5-point net declines were sprinkled through the list at the close and many leaders were down at least 2. Heaviness affected all groups. Bonds likewise reflected the prevailing mood of Wall Street, although commodities fared much better than securities. Sales on the stock exchange totaled 1,244,195 shares.

Some brokers felt that Montagu Norman's remarks on world economic conditions had had an adverse effect here; yet London markets were steady by comparison with ours.

The stock market was thin rather than weak and professional operations doubtless accounted for a large percentage of the transactions. Offerings concentrated in leaders, with little hearing their full proportion of offerings. Union Pacific lost more than 2 and New York Central, Southern Railway and Chesapeake & Ohio yielded 2 to 3.

United States Steel netted 3 points lower, preferred 4. Du Pont and Case dropped 2 to 1 each.

General Motors earnings figures for the third quarter and nine months, published today, showed the market closed, probably confirmed the pessimistic forecasts. The company reported a loss of $4,464,220 for the recent three months, which after preferred dividend payments made a common stock deficiency equal to 16 cents a share. The company earned only 8 cents a share on the junior equity during the entire nine months.

Tomorrow's statement on freight car loadings is being counted on for a gain.

Bradstreet's Weekly, commenting on retail and wholesale trade conditions, noted "an encouraging amount of optimism" in the sentiment apparent to be overbalancing uncertainties. Morale, it said, has been stiffened by the persistent seasonal gains. Dun's found expansion less extended, but regarded this as natural after the recovery since mid-July.

Foreign Markets.

LONDON.—Business on the stock exchange was moderate and quiet. The market was affected by profit-taking, especially in gilt-edged securities and gold mining shares. Industrial and Argentine securities improved slightly in the late trading. The market closed irregular.

PARIS.—Yesterday's heaviness in Wall Street was reflected in the home market. Movements were in the same direction and international issues declined. Oil shares were fairly well held and the closing was heavy.

BERLIN.—Dr. Luther's speech on the need of world trade by Germany strengthened opening prices on the bourse. Issues failed to hold their gains, however, and the closing was weaker.

NEW THEORY SEEN IN BERRIE DEFENSE

Counsel for Accused Minister May Claim Medicine Was Poison.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 21.—(AP) While a sick juror forced a halt today in the Rev. S. A. Berrie's murder trial, his attorneys defended intended evidence which they said they believed will show a deadly poison was present in a "nerve medicine" used by the preacher's first wife prior to her death last March at Moon Bay church, near Blackwell, Ga. Dr. W. L. White and the Reverend Allgood will officiate. Interment in churchyard. Funeral home of Bishop & Lee at 9 o'clock.

It was announced Dr. Robert M. Isham, research chemist, had made a written statement to the defense counsel concerning his analysis of a small amount of the preparation. He said poison was present in quantities "more than sufficient to cause death."

His testimony is intended to answer the state's charge that the preacher obtained poison and killed his wife.

Judge W. J. Crump ordered a recess in the trial until tomorrow due to continued illness of a juror.

In case the juror, W. L. Puckett, remains indisposed the case will be recessed until Monday, Judge Crump announced.

The defense said it was undecided whether Berrie would take the stand.

SOVIET RAPS BRITAIN FOR ABROGATING PACT

MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The newspaper Izvestia said today Great Britain's abrogation of its former treaty with soviet Russia is "the price paid by the British government to prevent Canada's further rapprochement with the United States."

"Unable to fight against American competition in its dominions," it added, "it bribes the Canadian capitalists, promising them to fight against soviet exports."

"It is for the soviet government to decide which means it is to employ to convince the English diehards that soviet trade is no current coin in the English world policy and that development of trade with a country of 150,000,000 inhabitants is a value to be considered."

Address Canceled.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Governor O. Max Gardner announced today that the press of official duties had forced him to cancel an engagement to address the Southern Society, in New York, tonight.
